No representation for the petitioners.

On 28.09.2000 while admitting the writ petition, a learned Judge granted status-quo for a period of four weeks. Subsequently, the respondent filed WVMP No.1804 of 2001 for vacating the order of status-quo granted in WPMP No.23616 of 2000. By the order dated 19.07.2002, a learned Judge vacated the order of status-quo granted earlier on the ground that there is a factual dispute, both as regards the survey number in which the land is situated as well as the entitlement of the petitioner on the one hand and the writ petitioner on the other with respect to the lands in question, and such disputes do not have an adjudicative disposition under Article 226 of the Constitution in the context of availability of more effective remedy by way of civil suit before the Civil Court of competent jurisdiction.

Therefore, it is clear that there are disputed facts in this writ petition. So, the writ petition is not maintainable and hence the same is dismissed. No costs.
